Four properties are considered their own co-op, and one property contains three separate co-ops. Across the seven houses, we have more than 500 members living cooperatively. The co-ops at these locations are regarded as their own houses:

3. 21st Street Co-op (~100 members): 707 West 21st Street

One property, affectionately known as Super Co-op, contains three separate houses:

5. Laurel Co-op (~60 members): 1905 Nueces Street Floors # 1 and #2
6. Nueces Co-op (~35 members): 1905 Nueces Street Floor # 3

Each of the seven houses is self-governed by officers who are elected by members of their co-op. The members at each house elect one or two of their members to serve on the College Houses, Inc. board of directors. The board of directors is the governing body for the College Houses, Inc. organization. Some board members also serve on one of four committees: Governance, Engagement, Finance, and Facilities/Operations.
